

Jackson Wins Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination bolstered by victory in the snow of Massachusetts, turned his attention today to the sunshine of Florida. But for Birch Bayh, Massachusetts may have been the end of the trail.

As Jackson prepared to take on former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in Florida next Tuesday, Bayh decided whether to continue pursuit of his presidential ambitions.

An aide to the Indiana senator said Bayh planned a meeting in Washington today with key campaign aides to decide whether to bow out after a seventh-place showing in a field of eight major candidates.

President Ford, meanwhile, said he was pleased with victory over former California Gov. Ronald Reagan in Massachusetts, where Reagan's name was on the ballot, and in Vermont, where it wasn't.

With 92 per cent of the precincts in Massachusetts counted, Ford had 101,325 votes, or 62 per cent, and 27 delegates, to Reagan's 57,600 votes, or 35 per cent, and 15 delegates.

In Vermont with 94 per cent of the precincts counted, Ford had 25,011 votes, or 84 per cent, to Reagan's 4,617 write-in votes or 16 per cent.

Carter got nearly half the vote in beating two other major candidates in Vermont Tuesday. He conceded, however, he was "overly optimistic" in predicting a finish in the top three in Massachusetts after winning New Hampshire's primary a week ago.

The lineup in Massachusetts with 92 per cent of the state's 2,133 precincts reporting was:

—Jackson 146,663 votes, or 23 per cent, and 30 delegates.

—Rep. Morris K. Udall 112,716 votes, or 17 per cent, and 21 delegates.

—Wallace 111,773 votes, or 17 per cent, and 20 delegates.

—Carter 93,049 votes, or 14 per cent, and 16 delegates.

—Sargent Shriver 48,434 votes, or 8 per cent, and 8 delegates.

—Fred Harris 49,000 votes, or 8 per cent, and 6 delegates.

Sheriff Quits Following Tax Evasion Plea

CINCINNATI (AP) — An "exhaustive investigation," consuming "thousands of manhours" and including hundreds of witnesses, has culminated in a guilty plea by the Butler County sheriff to two counts of income tax evasion.

"Every penny has been documented in evidence either by document or by testimony," said Ralph Winkler, first assistant U.S. attorney who presented the case in U.S. District Court Tuesday against Harold Carpenter.

Carpenter, who has been sheriff since 1969, pleaded guilty to tax evasion during 1971-72 after being named in a fourcount information which dated back to 1969.

Charges of tax evasion from 1969 and 1970 were dropped when Carpenter pleaded guilty.

Winkler said the maximum penalty on each count, if convicted, is up to five years imprisonment and up to $10,000 fine.

Later in the day, Carpenter officially resigned in a one-sentence letter addressed to John Moser, chairman of the Butler County Republican Party Executive Committee.

Moser said the county executive committee would appoint a replacement March 15.

Carpenter, who had already announced he was seeking a third four-year term as sheriff, pleaded guilty after Winkler revealed he had failed to report income of about $38,000 during the two years and had failed to pay taxes of about $12,000.

For the two years in question, the government charged that Carpenter had reported taxable income totaling $15,755.63 and paid taxes totaling $2,740.92 when he should have reported taxable income of $53,656.36 and paid $14,677.37.

Winkler noted that Carpenter had attempted to conceal the ownership of assets, had dealt primarily in cash, had failed to reveal his ownership of holdings in Tampa, Fla., and had failed to keep records of his financial transactions.

Weather

Cloudy and warm with occasional showers and thundershowers today, tonight and Thursday. The high will be in the low 70s today, low tonight will be in the lower 60s with Thursday's temperature in the upper 60s. Chance of precipitation, 60 per cent today, 70 per cent tonight and Thursday. High Tuesday was 75 with a low during the night of 63.

—Bayh 31,337 votes, or 5 per cent, and 1 delegate.

—Ellen McCormack, the anti-abortion candidate, 22,220 votes, or 4 per cent, and 1 delegate.

—Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp 18,970 votes, or 3 per cent, and 1 delegate.

Jackson said his victory in Massachusetts was based on a "broad coalition" of support, but both Udall and Wallace proclaimed triumph, too.

Wallace, who pegged his campaign to antibusing sentiment in Boston, said he was happy with his showing in the only state that voted for George McGovern in 1972. His strongest showing was in the 9th Congressional District, which includes South Boston, scene of most of the city's antibusing trouble.

Udall said his was victory over other candidates he has listed among the party's "progressives."

Massachusetts' Democrats will send 104 delegates to the national convention this summer, based on the popular vote both statewide and in congressional districts. The Republicans will send 43, with the delegation apportioned in line with voting statewide.

No delegates were awarded in Vermont's primary.

For Democrats in Vermont, the lineup with 94 per cent of the precincts counted was:

—Carter 15,236 or 46 per cent.

—Shriver 10,142 or 30 per cent.

—Harris 4,871 or 15 per cent.

—McCormack 3,148 or 9 per cent.

From Washington, Ford said in a statement he was "pleased by the outcome in Massachusetts and Vermont." The White House said the victories showed "the momentum is swinging in the President's favor."

Neither Ford nor Reagan campaigned for either primary, but Ford's committee spent about $200,000 on media advertising in Massachusetts and concentrated on telephone canvassing. Reagan did not set up an official campaign, but advertising he used for New Hampshire's primary Feb. 24 also reached Massachusetts voters.

Ford barely edged Reagan in New Hampshire and the two rivals have their second major showdown in Florida next Tuesday.

On the Democratic side, Jackson acknowledged Florida "is going to be rough, but Massachusetts is the key."

Wallace, campaigning in Miami, said Massachusetts was "a very difficult state" for him. But "whether they like it or not ... I'm running second and they thought I would run last," he said.

Said Udall, "It ought to be plain and clear tonight that if the Democrats in 1976 are to have a wider choice than Jackson, Wallace and Carter, then only the Udall camp offers that choice."

Harris, the former Oklahoma senator, told supporters, "I believe we can put together the kind of progressive majority to win that nomination and win the election," he said. "I want to go on."

The Massachusetts test for Shriver was on the home territory of his Kennedy in-laws. "Two primaries never made a presidential year," he told backers. "I am far from defeated tonight."

Even Shapp seemed satisfied, calling his vote "a beginning, not the end." Shapp also is campaigning in Florida.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments on the political front Tuesday:

—Democrats in Washington, Jackson's home state, gave him expected heavy support in precinct caucuses. The race for delegate support between Ford and Reagan was much closer.

Officials of both parties said it would be several days before the official tally is completed.

—An aide to Sen. Frank Church of Idaho said in Washington that Church will announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination March 18. The senator already has set up a campaign office in Washington.

—Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., said he will not run for president as an independent — something he had said he was considering — but stopped short of declaring himself out of a GOP run for the office.

Woman Beaten, Assaulted By Robber

By DAVE AMEY
Herald City Editor

Sixty-year-old Mrs. Helen R. Glover was assaulted and brutally beaten and her husband, Floyd, was injured at their 703 N. Pickaway St. home by a burglar, who threatened to kill them if they disclosed his identity to Circleville Police.

The assailant has been identified by Police as William Wesley Morgan, 20, whose last known address was Tarlton. A warrant has been issued for his arrest on charges of aggravated burglary, felonious assault, grand larceny of a firearm, and grand larceny of an automobile.

Morgan, who remains at large at press time, is the object of a state-wide search by law enforcement agencies. The 5-11, 152-pound man has long brown hair and brown eyes.

He apparently made his escape in Glover's 1970 Pontiac Catalina, which is a tan, four-door vehicle. License plate number is Y-1040. Morgan is considered armed and dangerous. Police said he apparently took a .410 gauge shotgun from the house. The shotgun had one shell with it.

Police Chief Robert Temple and Sgt. Larry Pontious attempted to locate Morgan, believed a friend of the Glovers' son, Wayne, in Tarlton and Laurelville early Wednesday morning with no success.

Mrs. Glover was admitted to Berger Hospital for treatment of extensive head injuries. Doctors used in excess of 50 stitches to close four wounds on the back and top of her head. She also suffered a badly bruised face.

Glover was treated for a minor hand injury.

Police Sgt. West Barton uncovered details of the robbery when he was

Seek Modification Of WPAFB Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, urged a House subcommittee Tuesday to approve a U.S. Air Force request for $32.8 million to modify the five coal-fired heating plants at Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Brown told the armed services military installations subcommittee the modifications were needed to bring the base into compliance with federal air pollution standards.

Pollution at the base has brought expressions of concern from local residents, Brown said, adding, "It is becoming an embarrassment that a federal installation such as this would be in violation of federal air pollution standards."

called to Berger Hospital 11:30 p.m. Tuesday to determine how Mrs. Glover had been injured.

At first, the Glovers gave conflicting and vague statements, apparently frightened by Morgan's death threats. However, Sgt. Barton finally unraveled details of the crime with the help of Ptl. Jim Ford and Ptl. Joe Stevenson.

According to his report, Mrs. Glover was summoned to the front door of her home by Morgan, who apparently told her that her son was ill.

Mrs. Glover apparently accompanied the man to a camping trailer on the rear of their lot. The trailer had been erected early Tuesday.

Once inside, Mrs. Glover was assaulted and beaten.

Glover, asleep in the house, became concerned when his wife did not come to bed. He apparently noticed movement in the area around the camping trailer and went to the back yard to investigate.

Glover told Sgt. Barton that Morgan struck him in the hand with a club as he was reaching for the door of the trailer.

The Glovers were ordered back into their house by Morgan, who took the gun, car keys, and $360 cash from them. He also ripped the telephone from the wall. As he was leaving the house, Morgan allegedly gave $100 of the money back to Glover to help pay the medical expenses of his wife.

Glover then carried his wife across Pickaway St. to the hospital's emergency room.

Police are not at all certain Morgan was alone during the incident. Glover's son, Wayne, told officers that Morgan and another man were with him earlier in the evening Tuesday at his Tarlton home, which he sometimes shares with Morgan.

After young Glover went to sleep, Morgan and the other man apparently stole his car. The vehicle was found abandoned in the lot at Berger Hospital near the Glover house.

Police also said that Mrs. Glover recognized another man when she initially entered the trailer. However, police believe Morgan was the lone assailant.

Police also think Morgan or the other man may have been involved in one of two prowler complaints in the north-end shortly before and after the incident.

In fact, Ptl. Stevenson and Ford were investigating one complaint at about the same time the incident took place.

An unidentified man was spotted standing in the rear yard at 100 Northridge Road by Nola Rader. The man apparently hurdled a fence and ran from the area when questioned by Ms. Rader.

Police were called back to the home 1:55 a.m. when Ms. Rader heard a noise in the basement of the house. However, no one could be found in the vicinity.

Council Approves Swimming Pool Licensing, Regulations

Circleville City Council approved a resolution Tuesday providing for the licensing and regulation of swimming pools.

The resolution gives the Pickaway County Board of Health authority to issue the swimming pool permits and to enforce the rules and regulations.

The annual permit fee was set at $25 for all public pools except those owned by government agencies or schools which will be assessed one dollar for a permit.

The rules set forth in the resolution govern both safety and sanitation and the board of health has the power to revoke the permit of a swimming pool operator.

In other legislation, council closed Smith Alley from Ohio Street north to Monroe Alley. The vacation of the alley was requested by the Ohio Church of Christ in Christian Union. The church owns all the abutting property on the section of the alley.

A new jail contract with Pickaway County for the incarceration of prisoners convicted and sentenced under city ordinances was approved. Chief of Police Robert Temple told council the contract worked out by Safety Director Ed Ebert and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff was very reasonable. Under the terms of the contract, the city will pay the county $5.55 per day or $1.85 per meal for each prisoner. This is the first increase since 1970. The old rate was $4.50 per day.

One final bit of legislation corrected an error in the annual appropriation ordinance. A sum of $2,100 for Fire House No. 2 improvement had been placed in the wrong fund, Council Finance Chairman David Goldschmidt said.

A letter from Columbia Gas of Ohio announcing a decrease of 2.12 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas was read by clerk Robert Shadley. The decrease is effective April 1.

A letter from the Ohio Department of Liquor Control notifying council that Jim's Super Duper has applied for a carryout permit was read. Chief of Police Robert Temple said the super market had applied for a license earlier but none was available. At that time, his investigation indicated there was no reason to object to the issuance of the permit.

Since then, a license has become available. Council agreed not to object to the issuance of the license.

A letter from a handicapped person was read to council. The writer pointed out that legislation has been passed requiring the ramping of curbs and public buildings for handicapped persons who use wheel chairs.

Mayor Frank Barnhill reminded council that one of the programs for which the city is seeking a community block development grant is ramping of curbs in the downtown area.

A letter from the Ohio Department of Transportation noted the final inspection of the Nicholas Drive Improvement project had been made and the contractor released from further maintenance responsibility. The street has been turned over to the city for maintenance.

Steve Barthelmas, of the Circleville Jaycees, presented a sketch of a proposed entrance gate and arch to Ted Lewis Park. The Jaycees are seeking permission of Council to construct the arch as a community service project.

Council gave permission for the Jaycees to proceed with the project.

Councilman Steve Jones reported he has received complaints from local

Firemen, Police Seek Wage Increase

A delegation of Circleville firemen and policemen attended Tuesday's session of city council to voice their dissatisfaction with the salary increases approved in January.

Dick Hedges, a member of the fire department, served as spokesman for both groups.

He said the salary increase of approximately 4 per cent did not keep up with the rate of inflation and that higher hospitalization insurance alone ate up most of the increase.

He pointed out that proposed legislation to continue for six months the salary of police officers and firemen injured in the line of duty has not been enacted by council although it had been proposed.

Hedges said both groups are requesting a meeting with council to discuss wages, insurance and other fringe benefits. He said if council will not meet with firemen and police, the two groups are prepared to take further action. He did not indicate what this action might be.

Council President Joe Bell explained to Hedges that the city's legislative body preferred for the firemen and police to go through the "proper channels" in requesting a meeting. According to Bell, the two departments should first meet with their respective chiefs and the safety director, Ed Ebert.

Fire Chief Mike Brown said the departments had "never had a good response by going through channels". He pointed out to council that firefighting and police work are two of the most hazardous professions.

In closing the discussion, Bell called the delegation's attention to the fact the general fund balance is very low at the present time and it would be impossible to grant salary increases without additional revenue of some sort. He said increased taxes were about the only method of providing this additional revenue.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, apparently hesitating over signs of increased tension in southern Africa.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off a fraction in the early going, while gainers took a slight lead over losers in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

In Africa, Mozambique closed its border with Rhodesia and said a "state of war" existed between the two nations.

Analysts noted that unsettled political and diplomatic conditions in any part of the world can often have a negative psychological impact on the stock market.

Today's early prices included Gulf Oil, down 1/4 at 22 1/2; Chrysler, up 1/4 at 19 1/2; Citicorp, unchanged at 31 1/2, and Massey-Ferguson, up 1/4 at 29 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 9.76 to 985.12.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index gained .32 to 53.82.

Big Board volume came to 25.59 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index picked up .56 to 103.97.

Court Arraigns Three, Sentences Two Today

Three men indicted Friday by the January Grand Jury in its second session were arraigned this morning in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. Two other men were sentenced on criminal charges during the mid-week session of court.

Al Sedlack, representing the county prosecutor's office, conducted the proceedings for the state of Ohio.

Guilty pleas were accepted by Judge William Ammer from Donald Vanover. Vanover was charged Friday by the grand jury with seven counts of passing bad checks. The court sentenced him to seven concurrent terms of six months to five years each at the Mansfield Reformatory for Men.

Columbia Gas Wins Rate Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc., will be allowed at least temporarily to charge all its customers—including residential—for the cost of emergency natural gas purchased for industry, the Supreme Court has ruled.

The state's high court agreed late Tuesday afternoon to prohibit two county judges—William T. Gillie of Franklin County and George Kiroff of Lucas County—from interfering with the cost pass-through.

The court's writ of prohibition stops the two judges from enforcing restraining orders they had issued against the cost pass-through and blocks any further proceedings by the judges in the Columbia Gas case.

The writs mean that Columbia can begin charging all its customers for the gas, pending full arguments on the county judges' authority to act in the case.

Columbia has said the extra charge will add between 75 cents and $1 per month to the average residential bill. A Columbia Gas spokesman said the extra charge will appear on residential bills as soon as company computers can be reprogrammed to add the charge.

ROBERT Scranton, chairman of the Red Cross Board of Directors, announced today that the chapter appreciates the response of local residents and organizations to the plea for funds for relief of victims of the Guatemala Earthquake. More than $500 has been received for this purpose and is helping to provide many necessities for the injured and homeless.

The American Red Cross has sent more than 5000 tents, 10,000 blankets, has helped purchase 14 ambulances to assist the sick and injured. In addition the Red Cross has sent thousands of bandages, traction splints, folding cots, lights and sirens for ambulances and radio equipment. Red Cross Blood Centers have sent quantities of blood and blood derivatives for use of the victims and industries and businesses in the United States have sent huge quantities of food, surgical supplies and medicines, cleaning supplies and sheets and towels through Red Cross channels.

Five American Red Cross disaster specialists are in Guatemala working on the League of Red Cross Societies relief staff.

The Guatemalan Red Cross has announced that it can no longer accept donations of food, clothing or medicine. The outpourings of gifts from all over the world to the tiny nation have inundated it with these supplies and storage space is almost non-existent.

Need for money to help with rehabilitation will continue for many months and years.

William McWhorter, indicted Friday for aggravated burglary and theft and by Christopher Gooden, secretly indicted for receiving stolen property.

Donald May, originally charged with aggravated burglary and grand theft, appeared today for sentencing on reduced charges of criminal trespassing and petit theft. The court sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail on the trespassing charge and six months in the county jail on the theft charge. The court then suspended all the jail sentence except for 45 days and placed May on probation for one year.

A final appearance during the morning was made by Robert Crosby, charged with receiving stolen property. Judge Ammer sentenced him to 1-5 years at the Mansfield Reformatory for Men then suspended the prison term and placed Crosby on probation for three years.

Roundtown Roamers Meet

The February meeting of the Roundtown Roamers camping club was held Saturday night at the Stoutsville K of P Hall. A carry-in dinner was served at 6:30 p.m.

In the absence of President Orville Kempton, Ralph DeLong presided. There were 17 families present. Guests introduced were: Mr. Otavio Garcia Caraballo from Rio, Brazil, who is visiting with the Robert Lands family; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller, state representatives to the NCHA; and John A. Kenz.

Donald Gatwood was elected to a two-year post as a chapter trustee.

Club members are to meet at Roundtown Acres in the Hocking Hills next Saturday, March 6, for a clean up of the camping grounds. All members are asked to participate as the camping season will soon start. In case of inclement weather, the following Saturday will be the rain date.

Wesley Edstrom reported on the progress of the Spring seminar of the Ohio NCHA to be held in Circleville at the fairgrounds on April 23, 24, and 25. Registration is due as soon as possible. An organizational meeting will be held at the fairgrounds on Sunday, at 2 p.m. All Lancaster chapters will meet with the Circleville chapter to make final plans.

Paul Miller stated that reservations were also due for the Spring statewide meeting to be held May 14, 15, and 16 at the Hocking County fairgrounds at Logan, Ohio.

As a public-service project, Mrs. Robert Love suggested the club should permit the children of Pioneer School of Ross County to use Roundtown Acres for a day-camp for one week in June. The children will use it for nature study, conservation work, and as a base for hiking excursions to the various caves.

The next meeting will be held March 27 in Stoutsville. A 6:30 carry-in dinner will precede the meeting.

Chaplains Bill Passes House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House members have sent Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill that would permit chaplains in state service to qualify for a federal income tax exclusion for housing allowances.

It was approved 89-1.

Deputies Charge Youth

Kenneth Parsons, 17, the youth implicated in a stolen car investigation earlier in the morning, was arrested shortly before noon Tuesday by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Parsons, who was charged with receiving and retaining stolen property, twice eluded Sheriff's Deputies at dawn Tuesday before he wrecked his stolen car near Ted Lewis Park and outran Deputy Dan Dewey.

His arrest was the result of close cooperation between residents of Elsea Mobile Village, Circleville Police, and Sheriff's Deputies.

A man fitting Parsons' description was seen in the mobile village shortly before noon.

Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple and Sgt. Larry Pontious set up a vantage point near the overpass on Route 23 and observed Parsons' movements while deputies and Circleville Ptl. Ron Thompson converged from different directions.

Parsons was finally arrested along the N & W tracks behind the Wellman Funeral Home.

Deputies are investigating the theft of about $1,000 worth of tools and equipment from a farm on the Jackson Road, south of Whisler.

The property is owned by Emanuel Schaal, Route 1, Kingston, who said that the theft occurred between 3 p.m. Monday and 2 p.m. Tuesday.

The thieves broke into an outside storage building behind the farm house to take three electric motors, an antique telephone, a drill, a tool box with tools, two shotguns, and a one-ton hydraulic jack.

Pickaway Bar Views Documentary

The program for the February meeting of the Pickaway County Bar Assn. consisted of the showing of a documentary film called "Just and Right," which is narrated by E. G. Marshall concerning the jury trial system in the United States.

The film which was purchased by the Bar Association several years ago has been used in the past as an informational and speaking aid for various groups. President Richard L. Gerhardt noted that it was available for program purposes to any interested groups.

In old business, letters were read which had been sent to the Ohio State Bar Association and the American Bar Association concerning the local Bar Association's opposition to advertising and letters to various congressmen and senators concerning opposition to Federal No Fault Insurance bills that are pending before Congress. It was also announced that Tom Tootle, Jim Hill, Gene Long and Richard Gerhardt had represented the Pickaway County Bar Association in the Pickaway County Extension Agency's recent Property Transfer Seminar.

Law Day chairman, Jim Hill, went over plans that are underway concerning Law Day which will be May 1st and indicated that it was hoped that both a program for the public, with perhaps a courthouse open house, and for the schools would be possible this year. In other business, legal service chairman, Jim Kingsley, gave a progress report on the appointed counsel system mandated under the new public defenders law and President Gerhardt appointed O. Charles Hosterman to the legal services committee in the place of the late Sterling M. Lamb.

residents that trains are exceeding the speed limit through Circleville. Chief of Police Temple said he would contact the Norfolk and Western officials who have a log of train traffic through the city.

Temple said that if the train exceeded the speed limit, the engineer would be fined by railroad officials.

John Jenkins reported the service committee has discussed proposed purchases for the service department, request for street lights and the condition of railroad crossings. He said that in the past he has always received prompt cooperation from the railroad when he informed them of crossings that needed repairs. He said that Service Director Atwood Jones was contacting the railroads now. City Solicitor John Adkins reported he had talked with PUCO and transportation officials and learned that the railroad must maintain the proper grade elevation at crossings. He said that if the service director would provide a profile grade study the railroad will have to correct any improper grade elevations.

Mayor Barnhill announced the city has received 276 stop signs under a federally funded program. He also

Gun Control Measure Seen Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lobbyist for strict gun-control laws says there apparently is insufficient public interest in the issue to prompt Congress to impose more stringent gun controls.

However, the lobbyist, Jack Corbett of the National Coalition to Ban Handguns, and other supporters of tighter guncontrol laws say their cause may have been strengthened in the long-run by the decision of the House Judiciary Committee to defer action on a gun-control measure.

This ironic scenario, espoused both in the Congress and by such private groups as the coalition, assumes that members of the public will be repulsed by crime and violence and will demand even stronger controls than those dealt a setback Tuesday.

The Judiciary Committee, on a 17 to 16 vote, sent the bill back for reconsideration by a subcommittee, and there was widespread sentiment that the move killed the legislation for this session. The measure would have outlawed so-called concealable handguns, set mandatory sentences for using a handgun to commit certain felonies, including murder and rape, and established a waiting period of 28 days before an individual could complete the purchase of a handgun.

Indicating the bill may be dead for this session, one Judiciary Committee member said there was doubt that subcommittee Chairman John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., will call it up for a new attempt at passage.

The House Judiciary Committee has not sent a gun-control bill to the floor since 1968. Without House action, there was little chance that a guncontrol bill would move through the Senate judiciary panel.

Dear Abby:

Charge His Batteries

DEAR ABBY: Mrs. Ready Kilowatt wrote to you complaining that at bedtime, all her electrician husband wanted to do was talk about business, while she had other things in mind. You should have advised that wife to learn the lingo of her electrician husband so they could make contact that would be satisfactory to both.

FULL CHARGED DEAR FULLY: Why talk? Non verbal communication is sometimes much more effective. Assuming that the husband's batteries aren't dead, the proper action could lower his resistance and increase his frequency. DEAR ABBY: Last October you had a whole column on fire prevention and suggested having a fire extinguisher in every home. Well, that gave me an idea for my married son's Christmas present.

It should make you feel real good to know that gift turned out to be a lifesaver for my son, his wife, two small children and their home!

Words cannot express my gratitude to you, Abby!

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: Thanks! Your letter made my day.

DEAR ABBY: Someone asked you if you thought a grandmother should be expected to sit with grandchildren who were rude and disrespectful. She said she had two married sons who each had two little boys under 10. The sons of one family were a joy to sit with, so she often did, but the other two boys were mean and mouthy, so she refused to sit with them. Her problem was that she was being criticized for playing favorites. You told her to turn a deaf ear to the criticism.

Well, Abby, CRITICIZED made her first mistake when she didn't correct her disobedient grandchildren the first time they got out of line.

One grandson sassed me, so I told him that his Daddy didn't sass me when he was growing up and that I wasn't going to put up with it from him, either. Then I gave him a smack and set him down. He was so surprised he sassed me again, so I have him another smack and set him down again. That was our first and last scene.

Later, I warned his younger sister, "You'd better mind Grandma or you'll get what your brother got."

Try to win their respect with love and firm discipline. If it doesn't work, refuse to babysit. Who needs frayed nerves and a headache?

ALICE CANTER
642-3044

Mrs. Luadah Hartman returned home last Tuesday from ten weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. Donald L. Hartman and their four children, Kurt, Karl, Jeanette and Janet in Anchorage, Alaska.

Among the interesting things she got to do while in Alaska was to take the 400 mile train trip north to Fairbanks where the temperature at the time was 40 degrees below zero.

The train passed the entrance to the state park of which snow-capped Mt. McKinley is the main attraction and it stopped to allow camera fans to take pictures. The mountain was 200 miles distant but in the cold clear air, appeared to be only a few miles from the train.

She also saw huge herds of buffalo during this trip and the annual Fur Rendezvous was held along with a carnival and the world champion dog sled races are a part of this event with entries from several of the "lower 48". At the Fur Rendezvous, raw furs of all kinds were auctioned.

Mrs. Hartman says she met the wife of a Fairbanks minister who came from Waverly and expects to visit relatives there this summer. She also made a trip to Matanska Valley, the garden spot of Alaska that most of us have seen written up in magazines along with bushel basket size cabbages and other produce.

She attended a senior citizen meeting and the night before she boarded a plane for home, following a supper at the church, saw a fine display of the aurora borealis or Northern Lights. Not sure that this was what they were seeing, her son drove out into the country away from the lights of the city so she really got the full effects of the dancing lights.

This wasn't Mrs. Hartman's first visit to Alaska. She and her late husband visited their son when he was in Sitka in 1971 and in 1973 Mrs. Carson Kelley and her son Pat accompanied them. The Rev. Hartman and his family have been in Alaska since 1966 and only last summer moved back to Anchorage after six years in Sitka.

Mrs. Hartman says her son and his wife left this weekend for a two-week holiday in Hawaii which is comparable to Florida as a vacation spot for folks in the eastern part of the United States.

The Rev. Hartman pastors a combined Methodist-Presbyterian Church and on Saturday nights, drives about 35 miles to Girdwood where he holds services at nearby Alyeska, a ski and vacation resort.

Girdwood was a victim of the late earthquake and a place for the chapel was donated by the resort. The payment for this weekly visit is one dollar and his gasoline.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon in Grove City for a native of Kingston. Jacq L. Gatwood, 66, died quite unexpectedly of a heart attack, Feb. 24 in San Antonio, Texas.

He was the son of Otis and Mildred Gatwood and his survivors include a son, John of Grove City; a daughter, Mrs. Roberta Dotin of San Antonio; three sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Ross, Kingston; Mrs. Lena Buskirk and Mrs. Helen Corcoran of Lancaster.

He was retired from the State Teachers Retirement System, a member of the Grove City U.M.

Church, St. Andrews Masonic Lodge at Springfield and the Grove City Chapter 502, Order of Eastern Star. Burial was in Concord Cemetery near Grove City.

Mrs. Roy Yaw of Columbus spent the day Friday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Famulener.

Mrs. Charles Maxwell has been discharged from the Mt. Carmel Medical Center in Columbus where she underwent orthopedic surgery on an ankle and a wrist. For those who are not acquainted with Pat, she is a victim of arthritis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Buck of Columbus were Sunday dinner guests of his mother and grandfather, Mrs. Kathleen Buck and Jesse Maxwell.

Four members of a local family were rushed to the medical center one night last week for emergency treatment for carbon monoxide poisoning caused by a faulty furnace. One of the children on becoming ill was making its way to the bathroom and aroused the mother who was able to call the emergency unit. All are O.K. now.

Mrs. Don Carroll entertained her bingo club last Wednesday night with prizes going to Mrs. Ronald Leasingham, Mrs. David Large, Mrs. James Spurlock and Mrs. Tom Congrove. Also playing were Mrs. Irwin Dresback, Mrs. Harold Wright, Mrs. Don Beavers, Mrs. Tom Snyder, Mrs. Tony Tartar, and Mrs. Ed Evans Jr., Mrs. William Moss Jr. is the March hostess.

"Student of the Month" begun this year for the first time at Zane Trace High School, lists for the month of January and presented at a February Assembly has Sharon Havens and Scott Haynes from the freshman class; Gina O'Brien and Pete Shaffer, sophomores; Nancy Carter and Mike Frazer, juniors and from the senior class, Sharon Schwalbach and Terry Dresbach. Teachers nominate a girl and boy from each grade and evaluation is based on dependability, attitude, class effort, conduct and activities.

The Mt. Pleasant Garden Club met last Monday night at the home of Mrs. Grover Whitten with Mrs. Harold Albert and Mrs. Kenneth DeLong. Julia Morris from a Chillicothe craft shop demonstrated and displayed items in macramae. The arrangements this month were made of various materials that were demonstrated at last months meeting such as, burlap, gingham, yarn and etc. The first two prize winners were Miss Gertrude Senff and Mrs. Russell Wolfe. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hill and Mrs. William Meadows are host and hostesses at the March meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Monte Hinton visited William A. Canter in Doctor's Hospital-West in Columbus, Friday evening.

Miss Judy Albert of Columbus and Gene Stuckey of Wooster were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Albert Sr., Sunday. The occasion was Miss Albert's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Albert helped celebrate the birthday of another daughter Friday night, when they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson near Greenfield.

Coal Walkout Still Unsettled

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Despite U.S. House passage of a black lung bill Tuesday night, a local United Mine Workers official says it may be several days before striking southern West Virginia coal miners return to their jobs.

Some 4,000 to 5,000 miners were off work Tuesday in Logan, Wyoming, Boone and McDowell counties during the second day of a protest against present black lung bills.

An UMW District 29, Subdivision 4 spokesman said Tuesday night that "it may be about three days until you get them all back to work. We did have some meetings tonight (Tuesday) about returning to work, but very few men showed up."

Washington Students Present Play

The students of Mrs. Winona Ramsey's fifth grade at Washington Twp. Elementary School, presented the play "Abe's Winkin' Eye" before the entire school, several parents, and Mrs. Marjorie Evans, County Primary Supervisor. With the theme of the play Education, it was very much enjoyed by all.

The forty-minute play took place when Abe was a lad in the interior of the Lincoln cabin on the Little Pigeon Creek in southern Indiana. As the play progressed, it revealed that the Lincolns and others of that time had a family life much like ours today. Abe himself was loving and at the same time full of pranks.

Much of the scenery and props were made by the class. Many things used in the 1800's, were supplied by the class.

Members of the cast, were Beth Hawkins, Philip Minor, Susan Born, John Radcliff, Julie Wills, Angela Murphy, Krista Drake, Elnora Brown, and Russell Baldinger.

A Page Of Opinion

Loosening The Purse Strings

The news that Gov. James Rhodes has signed a bill giving raises to members of county boards of elections serves to point up another defect that the Ohio General Assembly should take up.

We refer to the compensation of elected county officials. Their salaries are low, and set by state statute based on population.

The elections board members have received a raise. State legislators and other officials have also received raises recently.

County officials are still out in the cold.

The problem is especially acute in the smaller-populated counties. For instance, many of the county sheriffs in smaller counties make less than $10,000 per year.

This is, often, less than their deputies make, since deputies can be compensated at any level the sheriff is able to procure.

Meanwhile, a man with seven-day-a-week, 24-hour-per-day responsibilities makes less than some street maintenance personnel, and faces multifold dangers as well.

Other officials are in the same boat. Treasurers handling millions of dollars, auditors, etc. are all underpaid for the knowledge they must have and duties they must perform.

We suggest the state legislature should take an immediate look at county officials' pay levels with a view toward improvement before many take office next year.

The Joke Lingers On

By JIM BISHOP

At times, unaccountably, I am beset by a silly mood. I know not when it comes, or why. It may be part of a mild mental derangement. This morning, Henny Youngman stopped in for coffee. He said hello. I fell down laughing. A ridiculous situation.

My wife, a sneak, taped the words which convulsed me. Now it is late afternoon. The mood has departed. The jokes linger on:

I once wanted to become an atheist. I gave it up. They have no holidays.

Adam and Eve must have been Jewish. Where else would you find a girl who would say, "Have a piece of fruit."

A drunk walked into court. The judge said, "My good man, you have been brought here for drinking." The drunk said, "OK let's get started."

The automakers of Detroit are amazing. They start out with little pieces of metal, plastic and fabric and roll it down an assembly line. Thousands of men and millions of dollars in machinery put it all into one shiny new car. Then some nut buys it and turns it into little pieces again.

Two kangaroos were talking to each other. One said, "I hope it doesn't rain today. I hate it when the children play inside."

Traffic is impossible. To get on the other side of the street you have to be born there.

I saw this girl on the beach. I wouldn't say her bathing suit was skimpy, but I've seen more cotton on the top of a bottle of aspirin.

Two drunks walking down Broadway. One falls down the steps of a subway. He staggers up another staircase and rejoins his friend. "Where were you?" "I fell into some guy's basement and boy, has he got a set of trains!"

Customer at a tobacco counter. "Lady, gimme a carton of cigarettes." "What kind?" "Oh, anything you have." "Soft pack or crush proof?" "Soft." "King size or regular?" "King." "Filter tip or plain?" "Filter." "Menthol or not?" "Menthol." "Cash or credit card?" "Forget it, lady. I think I just kicked the habit."

An old man is alone in a hotel room. Someone knocks. A beautiful girl steps in. "Sorry," she says, "I must be in the wrong room." The old man growls, "You're in the right room, but you're 40 years late."

They have a new thing called Nicotine Anonymous. It's for people who want to quit smoking. When a member feels an uncontrollable urge to smoke, he calls up another member and he comes over and they get drunk together.

Last week I said to my mother-in-law, "My home is your home." The next morning she sold it.

A wife said to her husband, "Max, last night I dreamed you bought me a fur coat." Max said, "In your next dream wear it in good health."

Two ladies meet. One says, "What did you do to your hair? It looks like a wig." "It is a wig." "Strange, it doesn't look like a wig."

Father is explaining business ethics to a growing son. "Suppose a woman comes in and buys a hundred dollars worth of merchandise. You wrap it. She pays with a hundred dollar bill. As she leaves, you realize she has given you two one-hundred dollar bills. Here's where the ethics come in. Should you or shouldn't you tell your partner?"

Youngman doesn't appreciate the way his wife looks in the morning. He looked out the window and saw her chasing a dump truck. "Am I too late for the garbage?" she shouted. The driver shook his head. "No lady. Hop in."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Public Equity Corp., the would-be giant killer, a relatively small public company formed to correct abuses of the corporate world, has fallen to earth without ever having filed a complaint.

The support that was supposed to help it scale the heights — broad public financial participation — was insufficient. Only a fraction of the sought-after $2.5 million was put forth as a March 31 deadline approached.

"We regretfully have to report back to you that we have lost that campaign to make PEC a significant citizen force," said Thomas P. Mechling, president, the man who initiated the idea back in 1971.

In a letter addressed to "Dear Public-Interest Citizen," Mechling said that money already pledged for shares would be returned promptly and that those who planned to buy shares should "hold off for perhaps another day."

Public Equity's widely publicized goal was to put public interest law on a profit-making basis by pursuing class action treble damage law suits and legal counseling.

It acquired many appellations. It was compared with David facing Goliath and to Jack of beanstock reputation. It was called the anticorporation corporation. It was said to seek to use the system to change the system.

The tiny corporation cleared the Securities and Exchange Commission, considered a major accomplishment for such a novel idea, but it failed to arouse widespread support after

If you're a man, do you know what it means to come home at night to a woman who will give you a little love, a little affection, a little flattery? It means you're in the wrong house, that's what it means.

Mother comes home, sees her growing daughter sitting in a car in the middle of the dining room. "My God!" she screams, "how did you get a car into the dining room?" "Easy," the child said. "I made a left turn when I came out of the kitchen."

Show me a Jewish boy who doesn't go to medical school and I'll show you a lawyer.

A nut driving a car hit a woman. He yelled, "Watch out!" She said, "Why? You coming back?"

Fortunately, the silly mood passes. Let me know when you're having one and I'll do you a favor. I'll keep Henny Youngman away from your house.

soliciting "literally hundreds of thousands of people."

Thousands wrote for the descriptive prospectus, Mechling said, but thousands also failed to respond with $50, the minimum purchase based on 10 shares at $5 each. Those shares were to have risen or fallen with the company's fortunes.

Of all the bitter ironies that Mechling and his associates had to face was the possibility that Public Equity itself ran into antibusiness sentiment from among the small, consumer-oriented investors it sought to interest.

But there were plenty of other probable causes, some of them detailed by Mechling, who concedes it was his lack of knowledge about the law that permitted him to give the idea its initial boost.

He used such words as turned off, apathy, a hurting economy to describe the failure. Probably most pertinent, he said, was the public-interest citizens were unaccustomed to supporting a cause through a stock subscription form.

The fact that Public Equity didn't develop the support it felt it deserved and that its founders thought was "out there" among the little people, is bound to be interpreted as a weakening of the consumer movement.

Mechling, now in his mid-50s, doesn't think so. He is convinced the idea is worthwhile and that, perhaps in some changed form, it will persist.

"This is," he told his supporters, "not the first time that a good cause or a good candidate has lost a campaign the first time out."

Back Bill For Building

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A House committee recommended passage Tuesday night of a bill that would empower the Ohio Building Authority (OBA) to build a state office building in Toledo.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, the chief sponsor, said the structure, not yet actually planned as to size and cost, would house agencies providing government services for citizens in the northeast Ohio area—similar to a structure planned for Cleveland.

Under his bill, revenue bonds, to be retired with rents from occupants, would be offered to the various well-heeled state retirement systems which would be obligated to buy them unless able to state a valid reason. Upon their refusal, bonds then would be sold on the open market.

The measure was recommended for passage, sending it to the Rules Committee to await assignment to a floor vote, by the House Economic Affairs and Federal Relations Committee, of which Wilkowski is chairman.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Have you heard of a method of removing hemorrhoids without surgery? I have been told that it is used extensively on Europe.

Mr. W. W., Tex.

Dear Mr. W.:

You undoubtedly are referring to a particular kind of treatment for hemorrhoids devised by Dr. Peter H. Lord of London. This technique used in specially chosen cases seems to carry with it a fair degree of success. Not all surgeons, however, agree that this "dilatation" method should be used in all types of cases.

Proctologists, the surgical specialists who are particularly involved in the problem of hemorrhoidectomy, have not completely accepted this nonsurgical method as a substitute for the surgical technique in use at the present time.

Complete examination of the lower bowel and rectal area should, of course, first be performed to be sure that tumors and other conditions do not exist. Then the rectal surgeon may, in some cases, try this dilatation technique in the hope that it may prevent subsequent surgery.

A child in my daughter's kindergarten class has bitten two children. Do you think this is as great a hazard as I do? Both the mother and the teacher calmly dismiss the danger of this.

Mrs. M. D. L., Ga.

Dear Mrs. L.:

I am certain that neither the teacher nor the mother would "casually dismiss" this problem if it related to an animal rather than to a child. It should be stressed that a human bite may be just as dangerous and perhaps even more dangerous than an animal bite.

Bacteria (or germs) normally present in the saliva of the mouth can, through a broken skin, set up a dangerous infection. Doctors treat human bites very carefully and give antibiotics and even tetanus antitoxin to the bitten person.

It is not your problem to find out why this child shows such hostility and aggression. That is the problem of the parents and the educator.

They have an additional obligation to your child and to other children who might be exposed to this dangerous behavior pattern of the biting child.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: All speech defects should be remedied early before children are embarrassed by fixed speech differences.

Average Grocery Prices Show Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The average price of a selected grocery shopping list in 17 Ohio cities edged up two per cent in February's Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The average total cost at the end of February was $18.64, compared to $18.34 at the end of January. The average cost of the same items a year ago was $18.02.

A pound of chuck roast and ten pounds of white potatoes were the price leaders on average. The chuck rose 13 per cent, to $1.19, compared to $1.06 a month earlier. Potato prices rose to $1.59, six per cent over the $1.46 cost at the end of January.

A 17 per cent drop in the cost of a dozen medium white eggs was not enough to balance the price averaging.

Average cost of the other items checked regularly in the survey, and per cent of change from a month earlier were: one pound of hamburger, 81.5 cents, down three per cent; whole frying chicken per pound, 57 cents, down one per cent; center cut pork chops per pound, $1.89, up one per cent; one half gallon of store brand milk, 74 cents, down two per cent; one pound of stick margarine, 56 cents, down two per cent; a 12-ounce container of peanut butter, 67 cents, down two per cent; a four roll pack of toilet tissue, 77 cents, up four per cent; a one pound loaf of store brand bread, 35 cents, up six per cent; five pounds of granulated sugar, unchanged at $1.21; three pounds of coffee, $4.38, up nine-tenths of a per cent; a 49-ounce box of detergent, $1.39, up six per cent; a 14-ounce package of chocolate chip cookies, unchanged at 97 cents and a 12 ounce container of frozen orange juice, 68 cents, up four per cent.

The average price of the 16-item shopping list at Toledo was $16.85, down 2.4 per cent from a month earlier, making this the lowest priced city in the state among cities shopped. Massillon was second with a total price of $17.51, up 3.3 per cent from the previous month.

Other cities where prices were checked, the total cost at the end of February and the per cent of change from the previous month, included: Akron, $18.83, up 5.5 per cent; Athens, $19.15, up 2.2 per cent; Chillicothe, $19.09, down 1.9 per cent; Cincinnati, $18.59, down nine-tenths of a per cent; Cleveland, $18.49, down one-tenth of a per cent; Columbus, $19.06, up 4.6 per cent; Conneaut, $18.57, up three-tenths of a per cent; Fremont, $18.73, up 2.4 per cent; Canton, $17.72, down 1.1 per cent;

Portsmouth $19.90, up 1.5 per cent; Steubenville, $19.05, up 4.3 per cent; Van Wert, $18.71, up four per cent; Youngstown, $18.64, down three per cent; Findlay, $18.17, up one-tenth of one per cent, and Logan, $19.74, up one-half of one per cent.

U.S. Health Cost Curbs In Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — More federal regulation to control runaway health costs is the only way to avoid socialized medicine, the government's former top health official says.

Dr. Charles C. Edwards, writing in the current issue of the American Medical News, suggests creation of a National Health Authority along the lines of the Federal Reserve System to regulate the $135-billion-a-year industry.

"It is, I think, absolutely necessary that this country adopt a means of regulating the public-private health care system that will assure its survival and its continued ability to serve the public interest and the public need," says Edwards in the weekly publication of the American Medical Association.

Edwards, now an executive with a medical supply firm, served as commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration and assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Although doctors are already complaining about too much federal regulation of health care, Edwards said, it is clear "that the present path will lead to disaster, to an economic collapse of the kind that has humbled New York City."

"Unless the leadership of the American health enterprise can summon the wisdom and the courage to act, the opportunity to lead will be lost because the United States will have no choice other than to nationalize the health industry — not through any ideological revolution, but out of sheer economic necessity."

The Ohio Legislature took the initial step in March of 1836 to determine the geological structure and resources of the state. The actual survey was finally ordered in March of 1837.

Friends Of The Library Designate March As Month To Collect Records To Loan

March has been designated as record collection month by the Friends of the Library, according to Mrs. Richard Simkins, projects chairman. The drive to obtain useable records for the library began March 1 when gaily decorated boxes were placed in Pickaway county financial institutions to provide easily accessible collection points.

The collection boxes are covered with silver mylar donated by the Dupont plant and the accompanying signs were made by Marie Neff on behalf of the Roundtown Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

It is the hope of the Friends that Pickaway countians will donate records which they no longer use and that many of these will be suitable to be added to the library's lending collection.

Records which do not meet library needs will be sold to the public at a nominal fee and the money realized will be used to purchase recent, recommended releases.

Contributions of records may be brought to the library at any time throughout the month. However, for added convenience, boxes will remain in the following locations until March 31: Ashville Bank, 18 Long Street, Ashville; Citizens Bank, 26 E. Main St., Ashville; First National Bank of Circleville including Williamsport and Commercial Point Branches; Salt Creek Valley Bank, Laurelville; Savings Bank; Second National Bank, including N. Court St. branch; Third National Bank; Capital Savings and Loan; Equitable Federal Savings and Loan; Investors Loan Corporation of Ohio; City Loan and Savings Company; and Scioto Building and Loan.

YMCA Bridge To Aid Arthritis Foundation

Circleville Bridge Club at the YMCA will participate in a continent-wide charity bridge game 7 p.m., March 17. Nine tables are needed to be a sectional rated game.

In another such charity game held in November there were 6,705 tables in play making a contribution to charity of $48,390.

Committee members are Louise McGeehan, Madeline Sanders and Marguerite Weiler.

bicentennial candles and floral arrangements on the tables, as well as candles and portraits carrying out the Washington and Lincoln themes.

Mrs. Watters had made replicas of the Liberty Bell on red construction paper with a number placed on the back of each bell. One was at each place at the table. Mrs. Greenwood was in charge of the number drawing and a ceramic patriotic candle was won by Kathy Henn. A double-wick 1776-1976 candle was presented to Sally Dupler. Each member and guest also received gifts of a "Spirit of '76" or a "Liberty Bell" label pin from the Circleville Branch of the Equitable Savings and Loan Association and an emery board from Turner & Shepard, Inc. of Columbus. The program was concluded with a prayer offered by Mrs. Greenwood.

After a five-minute break, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Hill. Mrs. Hoffman reported that the bicentennial necklaces were all sold and the club voted to purchase more in both silver and gold. Kay Kline was welcomed as a new member after a unanimous, secret ballot was taken.

Members voted to make a contribution of $35 to purchase glasses for needy youngsters to Pickaway County Health Department. The name of the annual Scholarship Fund of $250. will in the future be known as the Clara Southward Scholarship. The by-laws are in the process of being revised and will be read at a later meeting.

The next meeting will be under the direction of Mrs. Wolford, world affairs committee chairman, on March 25 at Pickaway Arms.

Campus Notes

ELIZABETH GOELLER

Miss Elizabeth Goeller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Goeller, 306 E. Mound St., earned a place on the dean's list for the autumn term at Otterbein College.

Students named to the list had to carry three or more courses and must have earned two units of "A" and no grade below a "B".

James Terry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Willard Smith, Route 5 has been accepted for admission at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

A senior in Teays Valley High School, Ashville, he plans to enroll in Lipscomb in the 1976 fall quarter to follow a major program in Bible. His acceptance at Lipscomb is contingent on his high school graduation this spring.

Miss Cindy Sue Barnett was among the 48 students from Ohio who are included on the dean's list at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C. Miss Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barnett, Route 1, Amanda, is a freshman at Bob Jones University's School of Education.

Included on the dean's list at the University of Tampa in Tampa, Fla., was Forrest Allen Dray. Dray is a freshman at the university and due to his academic record during his freshman year, he was selected for membership in the Phi Eta Sigma, the freshman scholastic honor society. He is the son of Forrest Dray, 307 E. Franklin St. and Eloise S. Dray, 111 S. Scioto St.

Judge To Seek High Court Post

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Former Toledo Mayor John Potter, now serving in his second term on the 6th Ohio Court of Appeals in Toledo, announced his candidacy Tuesday for Supreme Court Justice.

Both Justices J.J.P. Corrigan and Leonard J. Stern will step down at the end of their current terms because they have reached the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Potter, a Republican, said he knew of no other GOP candidate for the vacancies. He said he would run in the partisan June 8 primary for a spot on the nonpartisan ballot in November.

Peachgrowers Fearing Damage

CINCINNATI (AP) — The eighth warmest February in Cincinnati history is causing concern for area peachgrowers. They wish it would stay cold when it's supposed to.

They say the warm February temperatures have brought out buds on the trees. If the temperature hits 25 degrees or lower before summer arrives, they warn that the southern Ohio peach crop has had it.

Growers say the peach crop seems to be the only fruit that's in trouble because peaches are the tenderest. There are about 20 commercial farms in the Cincinnati area with 100 acres of peaches.

Legislative Report

By MYRI SHOEMAKER.
State Representative
88th House District

There was a flurry of legislative activity this week in the Ohio House of Representatives. Among the legislative approved by the House this week were bills affecting pawnshops, motor vehicle noise, pesticides, emergency medical care, and consumer transactions.

The bill affecting pawnshops, House Bill 1158, was passed today and would require pawnbrokers to photograph and record the identity of individuals who pledge or sell property to pawnbrokers. Records of the photographs, identities, and property pawned would be maintained by the pawnbroker. These records would deter criminals from using pawnshops as a "fence" for the disposal of stolen property. The use of photographs would assist in the identification of criminals even though they may use aliases.

The bill, sponsored by Dayton Representative C. J. McLin, Jr., presently awaits Senate consideration.

A bill that would permit counties and townships to regulate motor vehicle noise was also approved by the House this week. Sponsored by Representative Sherrod Brown of Mansfield, House Bill 634 would establish maximum vehicle noise limits using federal guidelines. Currently, municipalities have the authority to regulate motor vehicle noise, but counties and townships do not.

The bill is now pending in the Senate.

Vote On Utility Rate Reforms Slated Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A House utilities subcommittee was set to vote today on a rate reform bill after adding amendments Tuesday which the sponsor charged were a capitulation to the "all powerful utility companies of this state."

The Senate-approved bill would replace the Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) rate formula with an original cost base for valuation of utility property.

Without dissent Tuesday, the subcommittee voted to allow the inclusion of utilities costs for construction work in progress in the rate base and normalize tax deductions for electric companies.

The amendments drew an unusually sharp statement from Senate sponsor John T. McCormack, D-31 Euclid.

"It is clear to me that the utility companies have totally manipulated and controlled this damaging political action from the beginning," McCormack said. "The action today critically smashes the vital portions of the bill."

Providing credit for construction work costs in rate increase proceedings was viewed as a key concession to Ohio's gas, electric and telephone companies which face a dwindling rate base under original cost. The RCN formula now in effect allows utilities to recalculate the cost of their investment in plants and equipment at current market value.

The normalization amendment would permit the state's seven investor-owned electric companies to qualify for a federal tax break.

"We will not tolerate these greedy operations killing this essential reform," McCormack said. "We intend to fight back against those in public and private life who obviously do not understand the outcry of the public of this state and the need to reform this state's utility law."

Subcommittee chairman Vern Cook, D-39 Cuyahoga Falls said he met with McCormack last Thursday, and outlined proposed changes in the bill.

Cyphert Named Group President

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Frederick R. Cyphert, dean of the College of Education at Ohio State University, has been named president of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

Cyphert took the Ohio State job in 1974 after seven years as dean of the School of Education at the University of Virginia.

Another House bill that was sent to the Senate this week would extensively revise Ohio's pesticide laws. Representative Fred Deering of Monroeville sponsored the needed environmentalist legislation, House Bill 1015, which would require the licensure of pesticide dealers and the certification of pesticide applicators. The Ohio Department of Agriculture would also be given increased powers to enforce pesticide laws and encourage the proper use of pesticides.

If the Senate and the Governor approve House Bill 832, sponsored by Cleveland representative Rocco Colonna, then counties, townships, and joint ambulance districts would be authorized to provide emergency medical services. Under existing law, counties, townships, and joint ambulance district would provide ambulance services. However, there is no statutory authority for them to provide emergency medical care for trauma victims. The House passed the bill Tuesday by a 79 to 10 margin.

Also on Tuesday, by a vote of 77 to 10, the House sent to the Senate legislation expanding the scope of the Retail Installment Sales Act to include motor vehicle and motor home transactions and transactions between financial institutions and their customers. Sponsored by Dayton Representative Ed Orlett, House Bill 419 would give consumers better protection in credit transactions.

In other legislative activity this week, the General Assembly overrode Governor James A. Rhodes' veto of legislation that would create a state nursing home commission. The commission would investigate and regulate conditions in Ohio's nursing homes.

Originally the legislation, sponsored by Representative William Mallory of Cincinnati, passed the House and the Senate by bipartisan votes of 76 to 11 and 30 to 1 respectively. The Governor's veto was overturned in the House by a 70 to 22 bipartisan vote and in the Senate by a partisan 20 to 11 margin.

The House also voted overwhelmingly, 81 to 10, to override the Governor's veto of legislation that would increase witness' fees and civil and criminal trials. The Senate will consider rejecting this veto in the near future.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

At a political meeting not long ago, the chairman, trying to hush a heckler, kept pounding his gavel on the podium. When that didn't work, he stepped over and pounded his gavel on the heckler.

Clearly, this method would not do in a court of law. But what measures can a judge take when a disruptive defendant simply won't be quiet?

In the most extreme situation, the judge may have the defendant bound and gagged. As Supreme Court Justice Douglas commented:

"A criminal trial, in the constitutional sense, cannot take place where the courtroom is a bedlam. A courtroom is a hallowed place where trials must proceed with dignity."

Of course, this would be a last resort. A less drastic step is to remove the defendant from the courtroom until he promises to behave. Although this does deprive him of the right to be present at his own trial, it is a right he himself has waived.

What the Supreme Court recommends for most situations is citing the defendant for criminal contempt. Every judge has the inherent power to do so, not for his personal vindication but to redeem the honor of the tribunal.

But even the contempt power is to be wielded with restraint. For example, according to American Bar Association guidelines, the judge should preferably take such action outside the presence of the jurors — to avoid prejudicing their minds against the defendant.

The best solution is to somehow persuade the defendant that everyone in the courtroom, including him, will be better off if the proceedings go ahead in an orderly manner. Judge Curtis Bok once made the point this way:

"In the whole history of law and order, the longest step forward was taken by primitive man when, as if by common consent, the tribe sat down in a circle and allowed only one man to speak at a time."

Great Seal War Getting Started

ST. JOHN'S, Canada (AP) — Seal hunters from here in Newfoundland and Norway, their clubs and weapons called hakapiks stowed and ready for use, set out this month into the heaving icepack off Canada on the annual hunt for seal pups.

But this year others who oppose the killing of seals say they hope to disrupt the hunt by spraying the white pelts of the pups with a green dye, rendering them commercially worthless, before the hunters reach them.

This year's quota, set by international agreement, is 142,000 seal pups.

Female harp and hood seals, fattened by fish eaten farther south along the Newfoundland coast during the previous two months, move north by late February.

There, on what Newfoundlanders call the whelping ice, the females give birth to thousands of pups, each weighing about 15 pounds. Absorption of the sun's ultraviolet rays by the pups' white fur keeps them from freezing.

By the time the sealing season opens March 15 the pups' diet of fatty milk from their mothers will have brought their weight to as much as 85 pounds.

If the ships are successful in finding the seals, the five-foot Norwegian Hakapike, hammerheaded on one end, and 36-inch wooden Canadian clubs will begin to swing.

The question is, what will happen if members of the Greenpeace Foundation of British Columbia attempt to carry out their plan of getting between the hunters and the seals.

The Greenpeace group previously known for attempts to halt whaling and French nuclear testing in the Pacific, say they will spray the white coats with the green dye. They say the dye will be shed as the pups take on the grey and brown fur of adulthood.

The white pelts and the 55 pounds of blubber available from the carcass of each pup are the main prize of the sealers, each of whom might earn between $200 and $1,000 during the season which ends April 24. The pelts go to

Revival Scheduled

A Revival will begin at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 E. Ohio St., 7:30 p.m. tonight. Rev. Don Bock will be the guest evangelist, the Gospellers and the Eden Gospel Five will be singing.

Rev. Bock is an evangelist with the Churches of Christ in Christian Union. He served as a pastor for several years before he entered into fulltime evangelistic work.

The Gospellers is a local group of young ladies. The group is composed of Miss Debbie Payne, Mrs. Vicki Beavers, and Mrs. Debbie Hayes, all of Circleville.

The Eden Gospel Five is a well-known and talented group from Sabina. They have sung for a number of revivals and have been a great inspiration to many.

The Revival will continue to March 14. The congregation and the pastor, Rev. H. David Cyrus, extends an invitation to everyone to attend these services.

furriers and the blubber is used in making good oils and cosmetics.

The meat, especially the flippers, is considered a delicacy by both Newfoundlanders and Norwegians.

Fishermen from eastern and northern Newfoundland, who regard sealing as a combination of adventure and an opportunity to make extra money during the lean spring months, have generally accepted the reduced sealing quotas of recent years.

But they have reacted angrily to outsiders' attempts to interfere with the hunt.

Some have threatened violence. Others said they hoped the front, the area of ice containing the most seals, would be blown far from land and out of reach of Greenpeace helicopters.

Ice forecasts indicate that the leading edge of the front probably will be east of Newfoundland's northern tip. The Greenpeace group plans to establish headquarters at St. Anthony near the northern end of the island.

Chamber Board Welcomes New Members At Meeting

New Chamber members were recognized at the monthly meeting Tuesday of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. The names of the new members were announced by Bill Bennett, chairman of the membership committee, and were approved by the board of directors.

New members include Gary Dean, Central Ohio Specialties; Greg Trecker, Circleville swimming pool; Jim Kuster, Jim's Super Duper; Harry Payne, Circleville postmaster; Myron Leist, Leist Farm Supply, Stoutsville; Mrs. Shirley Collier and Joan Goegelein, owner and manager of the Central Gift Shop; Jim Kingsley and Marvin Konkle.

It was also announced at the meeting that the board members had contacted all the delinquent members and all had re-joined the Chamber except two who stated they were retiring or going out of business.

Also on the agenda for the regular meeting was the possibility of offering Pickaway County as a site for the solid waste treatment plant devised by the Battelle Institute. Ned Harden, chairman of the City-County Planning committee, included mention of the plant in his report and then Tom Tootle, chairman of the Legislative Committee, advised the board that his committee had planned to discuss the plant at their next meeting.

The issue was presented to the board for discussion and action was taken for the Chamber to act as a representative in the planning and decision regarding the placement of the plant.

Asa Elsea, representing the budget and finance committee, reported that his group was looking at Chamber finances on a long-range basis and that the membership can expect some action from his committee in the future.

Announcements made to the board included the Bicentennial Committee's planning of a Heritage Program at the fairgrounds on June 5 and 6. The program will include displays and demonstrations of skills, arts and crafts, antiques, etc.

The Fraternal and Civic Commission is planning a Bicentennial Ball on May 8, complete with a costume contest. This event will be held at the fairgrounds coliseum.

The public relations committee will offer a letter writing service to the chamber membership to help members reach their congressmen pertaining to legislation affecting local business.

On April 1-3, the Retail Merchants are planning a Spring Fever Days sale. Red Wilson, representing that committee, reported that the merchants were also planning more entertainment this year at the annual sidewalk sale. A strawberry social and square dance is being planned in June.

Larry Plum, president of the Chamber, reported that the rail situation had eased somewhat since the N & W Railroad had sent confirmation of their plans to pick up the abandoned Penn Central tracks to serve Circleville.

At the conclusion of the meeting, all the names of those present were placed in a box and a drawing made for the winner of a five-day vacation to Myrtle Beach, S. C. Plum was the winner of the trip sponsored by the Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce as a promotional endeavor.

Blame Rail Crash On No Safety Devices

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The absence of radio contact and safety devices were key points in the first day of a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into a fatal head-on train collision near here Feb. 4.

Gallipolis State Workers Return

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — Forty-seven employees fired from Gallipolis State Institute following a strike Nov. 14 returned to work Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Communications Workers of America said the employees agreed to take a 30-day suspension ending Monday, but the agreement did not resolve issues which started the strike.

Edward E. Harris, regional communications engineer for the Penn Central Railroad, testified that safety devices which would have assisted an engineer in stopping a train were taken off tracks near Pettisville, Ohio, in 1970. He said he did not know why.

Harris, of Dyer, Ind., also testified there was no device in the cabs of the locomotives involved which would have alerted engineers that one train had gone through a stop signal.

Bill Fuson, a brakeman in the engine of the westbound train, said his train had slowed for a crossover and was traveling about 12 miles per hour. He said he asked the engineer if the eastbound train was moving, got no response, and unlatched a cab door. When the engineer could not raise the oncoming train on a radio, Fuson said he jumped.

The safety board opened a three-day hearing Tuesday into the collision 35 miles west of here which killed four trainmen and injured two others.

Carl Harmon, a conductor on the westbound train, told the board he heard his engineer on a radio, saying: "Hello, eastbound... What the hell are you doing?" got no response, then the final transmission, "Eastbound, stop your train."

Harris, under questioning by Inspector Elmer Garner for the safety board, said the railroad formerly had an automatic time stop actuated by an inductor alongside tracks to warn an engineer to apply brakes.

Depending on type, he said inductors either warned an engineer or automatically engaged brakes of a passing train.

Robert Bertch, dispatcher on duty in Toledo at the time of the accident, said he had no radio contact with either engineer before the collision. He said he took actions necessary to let the westbound train switch tracks.

Bertch said the eastbound train should have had a stop signal.

Commuter Tunnel Still Stalled

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The center city rail commuter tunnel, a subject of controversy since it was proposed 17 years ago, is still stalled by a lack of money.

The present price tag for the 1.7 mile, four-lane tube is $330 million. Opponents claim costs could climb to $500 million in the five years it will take to build the underground connection between the Penn Central Suburban Station and the Reading Terminal.

The tunnel would link 500 miles of rail lines in the Philadelphia metropolitan region and permit intercity trains like Amtrak's Metroliners to operate downtown.

"It would give America's fourth largest city the most integrated transit network in the world," says William J. Grabske, transportation aide to Mayor Frank L. Rizzo.

Consumer and neighborhood groups object to the tunnel as a waste of public money and an extravagant convenience for suburban commuters who now must walk six blocks between the two stations, located just north and south of City Hall.

"The public transit we have now needs to be fixed up and the city could just put a loop bus between the two stations," says Eric Strohecker, chairman of the Neighborhoods United for Action.

The Rizzo administration considers the tunnel a key element in downtown's continued development and the plan has strong support from business and labor groups who say it would generate at least 2,000 construction jobs.

The federal government has agreed to pay for most of the construction, but costs have risen above what Washington planned to contribute.

U.S. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman originally fixed the federal contribution at a maximum of $240 million, insisting that any cost overruns — caused by possible strikes, design changes and inflation — should be picked up by the city.

Philadelphia was ready to junk the proposal altogether until Coleman agreed to prepare a new contract that might raise the U.S. commitment.

Hillel S. Levinson, the city's managing director, says Philadelphia agrees with Coleman that the price should be kept under tight rein.

"We have to deal with money as if we were in private business," Levinson says. "If I were in private business I would insist on a fixed amount for the project. We're really talking about changing the attitude that government has an open check-book and can always go back to the taxpayers for more."

Pickaway School Receives Flags

The Big Bear Supermarket at 1180 N. Court St. has donated a set of eight historic flags to the Pickaway Twp. Centralized School.

This is the 2nd in a series that will be contributed to our community as an on-going educational feature of the Bicentennial Celebration.

For the past month, the eight flags have been exhibited at Big Bear. As the exhibit changes each month for the first six months of the calendar year, the flags will be moved to a local school for permanent exhibit. Each flag is accompanied by a brief report of the part it played in the history of our country.

There will be a total of 48 of these historic flags to be displayed in sets of eight at Big Bear throughout the Bicentennial. Each flag measures 3 x 5 feet and has been authentically reproduced and its history researched. Big Bear is the only chain in this marketing area to exhibit these flags.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

Twenty young people of this community deserve all the praise we can give them for the fine job they did in canvassing the town on behalf of the Heart Fund this past Sunday. A total of $213.71 was collected from those who were at home.

With it being such a lovely day many folks were away so if they wish to contribute they may do so either by envelope left in the doorway or contact one of the following and that person will pick it up and turn in the donation:

Brian Wisecup, Kristi Lane, Debbie Riggsby, Sheryl Cox, Amy Easterday, Jaynell Jordan, Theresa Tarbill, Joy Bidwell, Faith Ann Picklesimer, Kelly McCafferty, Shara Valentine, Brenda Galloway, Kim McCafferty, Becky Stonerock, Lori Metzger, Phoebe Shaw, Teresa Stonerock, Vicki Buskirk, and Dena Galloway.

Also helping was Mindy Markel of Chillicothe who was the Saturday overnight guest of her cousin Faith Ann "Lollipop" Picklesimer.

Chicken pox continues to make the rounds and some of the latest victims are Kara Wolfe, Tricia Young, Suzanne and Amy Matthews and Jane Whitten. Respiratory illness is plaguing Aunt Gladys Arledge and Crystal Metzger.

Paul and Libby Chester are home from a fun filled Florida vacation. Fort Myers and Tarpon Springs were more or less "headquarters" while they saw all the sights with W.C. and Gertrude Shasteen of Circleville who had traveled with them. Libby and Gertrude are sisters. One day was spent visiting with the Raymond Lindseys.

Another couple just home from a Florida visit are Ray and Jean Valone who flew down to spend time with Ray's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valone at Orlando, Fla. and also to be with Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swanson at Pompano Beach, Fla. An extra added bonus increased the joy at brother Frank's home because two other brothers came in to make for a real brotherly reunion — Bob Valone and his mate from Warren, Pa. and Sam Valone and spouse of Eustis, Fla.

Sunday began an exciting few days for Tommy and Mae Carter and Carl and Mary Gearheart since it was the arrival day of Kathryn Metzger Carter and daughter Diana from Wayzata, Minn. It is spring break time for Diana who is a freshman at Bemidji State University (located near International Falls, Minn.)

A lot of snow was covering the ground when the two ladies departed home to our unbelievable warm climate.

A number of family gatherings are planned in honor of the visitors. One for Tuesday evening at Wardell's Party Home when Mary Gearheart will be hostess and also being honored will be her husband Carl who will be celebrating his birthday.

Another get together at the Carter home for Wednesday evening will have Byron and Ethel Carter with daughters Lisa and Chari from Circleville, Carl and Mary and the honored guests. While here Diana is the "sleeping in" guest of grandparents Mae and Tommy and Kathryn is with her mother Mary Gearheart and Carl.

The visitors will spend time with Kathryn's brother and his family Bob and Pat Metzger, Lori and Crystal, other family and friends, too. We wish them a safe return home.

Having a birthday this Friday will be Margaret Anderson who was the honored guest at a family dinner held in the home of Glenn and Ruth Anderson near Clarksburg last Sunday.

Wishing Margaret the joys of many more birthdays were Byron and Ethel Carter, Lisa and Chari of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson of Frankfort, Steve and Judy Anderson, Gary and Gilbert Harmount of Clarksburg, Tommy and Mae Carter and her husband Roy of our town and of course the hosts. We add our wishes for many more happy birthdays to a truly nice lady.

It was "blue jeans" Sunday again at the United Methodist Church with the UMYF in charge of an interesting worship service. Little three-month-old Charles Jacob Downing was right in the swing of things because he, too, was attired in his "blue jeans". Cutest thing you ever saw. His parents are Roy and Patty Leist Downing and locally his beaming grandparents are Jacob Norman and Evelyn Leist.

It was family dinner time Sunday in the home of Jim and Mary Picklesimer. From Derby came J. F. and Vicki Picklesimer and son Jason, over from Circleville were Mindy Bivens and daughter Brandi Jo (daddy "Butch" was sleeping in because of being on the late shift at work) and also from Circleville was Mary's sister Marvane Dewey. Happy to have her little nephew and niece come visiting was Kelly Picklesimer.

For a great number of folks all roads led to Grove City and the tournament basketball last Friday evening; however for some the pathway was different as in my case, also Ben "Chub" Cook, his Lillian and their Linda "Boo", also Rich Justice and his Mrs. and two of their friends.

While in conversation with Mrs. Justice the subject of new recipes came up and she gave me one that I tried Sunday and the family liked very much so we will have that in the sharing corner this week.

½ to 1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 can crushed pineapple (juice, too)
1 pkg. instant pistachio pudding
1 container cool whip or similar
½ cup chopped nuts (I used pecans)
Mix marshmallows and pineapple in bowl and let stand for an hour or so then beat. After well mixed add the pudding and mix thoroughly. Fold in cool whip and then the nuts (the nuts are optional). Refrigerate. Really delicious!

Our good neighbor to the north, Harry Puffinbarger, has not been too well for the past several days. That blasted meany "Arthur Itis" is being very troublesome.

Another dear neighbor, Mrs. J. R. Bright, is a patient at Fayette Memorial Hospital at Washington C.H. and is "holding her own". Remember her with cards and in your prayers.

Herman and Garnet Porter of near Five Points are recently returned from being with family down in Homestead, Florida and they brought back a number of "goodies" which they shared with Herman's mother Mrs. Bertha Porter who is our delightful neighbor "catywampus" on the corner and she shared a bit with us. We liked it.

Reminders

Special services at Mt. Pleasant U.M. Church on Route 138 close by Kinderhook this Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Earl Russell of the Good Hope charge will be visiting minister.

Williamsport Marching Cadets are reminded again to meet Saturday from 3 p.m. until 4 p.m. at the Pavilion. New members are welcome.

American Legion Hall will be open and ready for a pleasant evening of playing bingo on Monday. Games begin at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments are available during intermission break. Proceeds all go for charitable causes.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

SALT CREEK GRANGE

The Pickaway County Grange Youth presented the literary program at the meeting of the Saltcreek Valley Grange held last evening at the Wolfe Hall in Tarlton.

Over 40 members and guests were present for the program devoted to music of the United States of America. Directing the program was Ron Chesser who serves as the program chairman of the local youth organization.

Participating in the program were: Mark, Randy, Shirley, and Neal Wolfe; Joan Dawson; Barbara McKenzie; Paul Dunkle; Barbara and Brenda Bolender; Karen Ewing, and the director.

Hoyt Timmons conducted the business session which included reports by officers and committee chairmen. Barbara McKenzie reminded members that the exchange program would be on March 9 at the Star Grange in Five Points. This meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

On March 16, the Saltcreek Grange will have guests including the Pickaway County Deputy Master, who will inspect the program, and the ritual of the order.

arguing, writing, typing, talking, plotting, scheming, thinking or convincing. Just waiting.

The morning opened in the Supreme Court chambers at 9 a.m. It detoured to Franklin County Common Pleas Court in early afternoon, got sidetracked in the Lucas County Common Pleas Court, then returned to the Supreme Court about 5 p.m.

And, in the end, Columbia Gas was allowed to do just what it planned to do before the lawyers began.

There were 13 attorneys of record in the Supreme Court, not counting those wanting to intervene in the case, all of whom were refused permission by the court.

All of the attorneys were supposed to be present at 9 a.m.— and were soundly scolded by Chief Justice C. William O'Neill for being late. From 9 to 11:30 a.m., they waited in the hallway outside the court while cases higher on the docket were argued.

At 11:30 a.m., they tramped into the chambers, together with other lawyers who wanted to observe the case.

Joseph Goldberg of Lucas County and Louis E. Evans of Franklin County split the 15 minutes of arguing time assigned to their side. James L. Fullin of Columbia Gas, used about 10 minutes of his allotted time, saving the other five minutes to rebut Goldberg and Evans.

After 30 minutes of arguments, the court was adjourned. Thirteen lawyers had waited 2½ hours to argue, at a net cost of $13,000 at the rate of $40 an hour.

Later, more lawyers gathered in the Franklin County Common Pleas courtroom of Judge William T. Gillie.

There were only five lawyers there. Four of them were assistant attorney generals—two on each side.

The attorney general's special litigation section, acting as a natural gas consumer, was suing Columbia Gas. The attorney general's public utilities section intervened on the side of Columbia Gas and asked that the special litigation section's suit be dismissed.

on one side and Asst. Atty. Gen. Andrew J. Ruzichio on the other argued over points of law. The five lawyers waited only a half-hour to appear, at a theoretical cost of about $1,000.

The loser appeared to be Public Utilities Commissioner David C. Sweet, who was subpoenaed by Ruzichio to testify. Sweet wanted to testify, but the PUCO attorney, Resnik, did not want him to. And the PUCO attorney successfully argued against allowing the PUCO commissioner to speak.

High Court Ruling Eases Libel Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has refused to make it more difficult for private persons to sue for libel on the basis of news reports of court proceedings.

In a 6-3 decision Tuesday, the court ruled that Mary Alice Firestone was entitled to collect damages if she could show that Time magazine was negligent in a 1967 article saying she had been divorced on grounds that included adultery.

Time had argued that she should be required to show "actual malice," both because she was a public figure and because the magazine article was based on court records.

The court rejected both arguments.

The justices sent the case back to Florida courts to determine whether Time was, in fact, negligent.

CCA Fire Reported

A fire at Container Corporation, 401 W. Mill St., was reported to the Circleville Fire Department at 7:43 Tuesday evening.

An employee reported the fire which had been caused by an overheated duct. The heat from the duct caused the roof to ignite.

Minor damages were caused.

Price-Fixing Awards Made

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fifty-four local water departments and sanitary districts will receive $86,720.38 as an antitrust settlement announced Tuesday by the state attorney general.

The settlement is Ohio's final share of its agreement with iron pipe and pipe fitting manufacturers. It brings to $377,197 the total amount recovered by the attorney general.

Several lawsuits were filed in U.S. District Court in Alabama in 1971 that contended eight cast iron pipe manufacturers conspired to fix prices and allocate markets in the sale of pipe and pipe fittings from 1945 to 1970, resulting in higher prices to public agencies.

Ruling Action

In another case, the court ruled that prosecutors are immune from civil damage suits even if they deliberately violate the civil rights of defendants.

"The public trust of the prosecutor's office would suffer if he were constrained in making every decision by the consequences in terms of his own potential liability in a suit for damages," the court said in the 8-0 decision.

In the libel case, Mrs. Firestone, the third wife of tire heir Russell Firestone, was awarded $100,000 damages by a Florida jury after Time reported that she had been divorced on grounds of adultery and extreme cruelty.

The judge in the divorce case had made no finding of adultery and had awarded alimony to Mrs. Firestone. Under Florida law at the time, an adulteress could not receive alimony.

Under previous Supreme Court rulings, a public figure suing for libel must show that the challenged report was published with knowledge of its falsity or with reckless disregard of whether it was true. This is called "malice."

Time contended the "malice" test should apply to all reports of court proceedings.

Justice William M. Rehnquist, speaking for the court, said the Constitution contains "no such blanket privilege," for such reports.

"The details of many, if not most, courtroom battles would add almost nothing towards advancing ... uninhibited debate on public issues," Rehnquist wrote.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., disagreed and said it is "critical that the judicial processes be open to ... scrutiny and criticism" by the news media among others.

Bucks Beat New Orleans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sophomore slump? Don't tell that to Brian Winters or Phil Smith. The two 6-foot-4 backcourtmen are having too much fun in their second year in the National Basketball Association. Winters, one of four players obtained by Milwaukee in the deal which sent Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to Los Angeles, scored 12 of his 28 points in overtime including the winning basket with three seconds left to give the Bucks a 111-109 victory over the New Orleans Jazz Tuesday night. Smith, meanwhile, scored 23 points in the second half to lead Golden State past Buffalo 100-93. He hit five consecutive baskets in the fourth quarter to give the Warriors the lead for good. Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Seattle 109, New York 105; Washington 128, Philadelphia 111; Kansas City 127, Detroit 113, and Portland 116, Chicago 105.

Winters sent Milwaukee's game into overtime with a basket with 37 seconds left, then gave the Bucks a 109-108 lead by scoring with 22 seconds to go in the extra session.

Winters is averaging 17.9 points per game for Milwaukee, which leads the Midwest Division by 2½ games over Detroit. Smith is scoring at a 19.5 clip for the Warriors, and is one of the big reasons Golden State has made the Pacific Division a runaway.

Golden State trailed 79-77 when Smith went to work, reeling off 10 straight points to help the Warriors take command. He had played just six minutes in the first half because of foul trouble.

Matt Hicks Leads MAC

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Matt Hicks of Northern Illinois, the conference's No. 1 scorer and rebounder, has been named the Mid-American Basketball Player of the Week for a second time.

The 6-foot-4 junior from Aurora, Ill., scored 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Wednesday night against Central Michigan and posted a 24 point-20 rebound performance against Bowling Green Saturday.

Hicks paces the league in scoring with a 24.7 average and in rebounding with 12.3. He is 10th in the nation in scoring and the 19th best rebounder.

Other candidates considered by a panel of newsmen were Tommy Harris of Bowling Green, Ben Poquette of Central Michigan, Dan Hoff of Eastern Michigan, Archie Aldridge of Miami, Mike Corde of Ohio University, Mike Larsen of Toledo and Western Michigan's Jeff Tyson.

Cage Teams Needed

Teams are needed for a basketball tournament to be held at Mt. Sterling in the old high school gym. Anyone interested in entering should call 437-7841 or 852-3621 ext. 66 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Xavier Whips Dukes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"That's what we started the season for—that winning record," said jubilant Cincinnati Xavier sophomore Joe Sunderman, who scored 24 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in the Musketeers' 98-86 victory over Duquesne Tuesday night.

The victory assured Xavier (14-11) of its first winning record since 1963-64 going into its final game of the season against No. 2 ranked Marquette Friday.

Meanwhile, 13th-ranked Cincinnati, perhaps looking ahead to the upcoming Metro 6 basketball tournament where it is top seeded, suffered an 87-71 upset at the hands of Loyola of Chicago Tuesday night to finish the regular season at 22-5.

Xavier junior Dale Haarman, who had 23 points, said the players knew "we had to have this one. With Marquette coming in Friday—probably the best team in the country—we knew if we were going to get the winning record, it very likely had to be against Duquesne."

Duquesne, finishing the season 12-13, battled Xavier evenly in the first half trailing 40-37 at intermission.

The senior Mike Plunkett hit two three point plays and Xavier's five starters all finished in double figures to build a 17-point cushion through most of the stanza.

Duquesne, led by Norm Nixon with 25 points, outscored Xavier from the field 39-36 but their aggressive play resulted in 31 foul calls and Xavier outscored them 26-8 at the foul line.

"I'm very happy for these guys," said Xavier Coach Tay Baker. "They've done a heck of a job. They've just hung in there together all year long."

Wildlife Fund Gains Backing

By JIM DAUBEL
Written for Associated Press

The Wildlife Legislative Fund, little more than a well conceived idea two years ago, has come squalling into infancy like few Ohio sportsmen's organizations ever have.

Though still restricted by growing pains, the fund received surprising support from clubs in 1975 and looks to this year as a crucial test of its ability to reach individuals and companies.

That is the assessment of James H. Glass, Columbus industrialist who guided the fund from concept to reality and who serves as its first chairman.

The Wildlife Legislative Fund (WLF) is a nonprofit trust committed to lobbying and legal action, when necessary, to protect the rights of sportsmen and, above all, to guarantee the wise use of wildlife resources, according to Glass.

Released last month, a resume of the fund's activities since its first board meeting in May 1974 illustrates the rapid growth of this young group.

Total accomplishments of the WLF in 1974 were summarized in three short paragraphs. It took 3½ pages of single spaced typing to outline the WLF's work in 1975.

Among achievements cited by the fund were:

—Successful opposition to a bill to ban the leg-hold trap.

—A lawsuit filed against the state treasurer to return to the wildlife division some $450,000 in annual interest on license fees. The suit is still pending.

—Testimony against a bill to increase license fees to $2 to finance the hiring of unemployed youths. The proposal died in committee.

—Lengthy efforts in the legislature and in court in support of the dove hunting season initiated last year.

"I'm sure they wanted to be the first team in 12 years to be a winner, but I also think they've just been motivated because they're intense people...and, most of all, because they've got a lot of pride in themselves."

Xavier freshman Nick Daniels scored 19 points and guard Gary Whitfield had 11.

Ernest Cooper scored 21 points for Duquesne, Mick Davila had 12 and Roland Jones 12.

Loyola led Cincinnati the entire game, but the score still was close midway through the second half until the Bearcats went scoreless for five minutes while the Ramblers stretched out a 15-point lead.

Tad Dufelmeier paced Loyola (19-16) with 27 points. Mike Artis was tops for Cincinnati with 16.

—Sponsorship of newspaper advertising defending sportsmen against charges of inhumane treatment of animals.

—Opposition to a House bill which would give the legislature final say on state administrative decisions, including hunting, fishing and trapping regulations. The bill remains in committee.

The fund's growth also is reflected in its balance sheet. Contributions of $1,800 in 1974 increased to more than $32,000 in 1975.

All but about $7,000, which came from individuals, was contributed by sportsmen's clubs and organizations, Glass said.

The fund's primary objectives in 1976, aside from ongoing legislative and legal activities, Glass explained, is to reach individuals and industry.

Hint At Baseball Talks Break

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The National League has taken the first decisive action of the 1976 major league baseball season — the Giants will stay in San Francisco — but there also are rumors the teams may soon be in spring training.

League owners on Thursday approved the sale of the Giants to San Franciscoan Robert Lurie and a partner from Phoenix, Ariz., Bud Herseth. NL President Chub Feeney says the Giants will stay in Candlestick.

Meanwhile, an impasse that has kept all but one major league team from beginning the spring tuneups entered its third day today, threatening to wipe out the first weekend of exhibition season.

But despite some belligerent and pessimistic language in Miami, where owners and players are negotiating, there were indications a settlement was near.

The St. Louis Cardinals rented rooms for their players at the Edgewater Beach Motel in St. Petersburg, Fla., on Tuesday, and they are to report later in the week. The Pittsburgh Pirates ordered their front office personnel to Florida by Friday.

There also were reports that New York Mets General Manager Joe McDonald, who has delayed his arrival at St. Petersburg repeatedly, will arrive at the spring training site Thursday.

The Baltimore Orioles also were reported to be planning to open camp as early as Thursday, and the Atlanta Braves are rumored to be planning a Friday opening of preseason warm-ups.

These rumors, and others, have led to suspicion that an announcement is forthcoming from Miami negotiators.

The first full weekend of preseason games is scheduled for March 13-14. But a major league rule and the delay of spring training, which was to have opened March 1, has jeopardized those games.

The rule says players must undergo 10 days of spring training before they participate in preseason competition. Thus, players would have to be in camp today to play on the 13th, and if they are not in camp by Thursday, Sunday's games also would become illegal.

Feeney said the poll of the 11 NL clubs conducted by telephone from San Francisco was unanimous in favor of approving the sale of the Giants to Herseth and Lurie, who will be the controlling partner.

Bob Short, a Minneapolis contractor who had been a partner of Lurie's in the original bid to buy the Giants, was not involved in the sale in its final form, Feeney said. There was no explanation why Short dropped out of the picture.

The announcement ended months of speculation whether the financially-troubled Giants would stay in the Bay Area or move to Toronto, where a bid had been made to buy the team.

In Miami on Tuesday, Marvin Miller, the players' negotiator, and the owners' chief negotiator, John Gaherin, briefed about 60 players on the status of negotiations.

"It's frustration," said Baltimore Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer when the meeting broke up after three hours. "It seems the owners have shown great reluctance to discuss issues."

Pacers Top San Antonio Spurs, 107-97

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Antonio Spurs were caught with their points down and it proved embarrassing to Coach Bob Bass.

"I really can't explain why one game we play well, and the next game we're completely flat against the same team," he said.

The lackluster performance cost the Spurs a 107-97 American Basketball Association loss to the Indiana Pacers Tuesday night.

"We weren't moving the ball good on offense," Bass said. "Away from the ball we just stood around. Whether we were running a set play or passing the ball, we weren't moving."

Indiana's Bobby Leonard, on the other hand, could find few things wrong with his team.

Billy Knight and Len Elmore combined for 55 points to lead the high-powered Pacer offense. And the Pacers tightened up their defense when needed.

In the only other ABA game Tuesday night, the Spirits of St. Louis whipped the Kentucky Colonels 97-82.

The Pacers, clinging tenuously to the final playoff spot, jumped to a 12-2 lead and were never headed. The Spurs got as close as eight points in the final period, but the outcome was never in doubt.

Knight led all scorers with 31 points, while Elmore added 24 points and 17 rebounds. James Silas led the Spurs with 26 points. George Gervin and Larry Kenon had 19 and 18 for San Antonio, respectively.

Ernie Washington Heads For Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A fullback who was considered one of the top prep running backs in Ohio has signed a Florida State football scholarship. FSU athletic officials said Tuesday.

He is Ernie Washington, a 210-pounder from East Liverpool, Ohio, who scored 18 touchdowns last year and gained more than 1,000 yards.

LE Board Reviews Athletic Handbook

The Logan Elm Board of Education met Tuesday night in a continuation of its regular meeting which began on Monday night.

Among the items on the continued agenda was the discussion of a revision of the handbook for all sports in the athletic program. A written presentation of the proposed revisions was given to the board as submitted by Paul Brown, athletic director.

The board voted to study the handbook and discuss any revisions at the next meeting.

Dow West, high school principal, was appointed by the board to act as coordinator for the Title IX funds. Title IX is a federal program which prohibits school districts who participate in the program from discriminating in either employment practices or student offerings on the basis of sex.

The lunchroom supervisor reported to the board that there were 81 adults who accepted the school's invitation to participate in the bicentennial lunch last Wednesday. The adults ate lunch with the students.

The program will be continued and a bicentennial lunch served once a month until the end of this school term. On April 28, a senior citizens group will eat the bicentennial lunch with the students.

On March 9, the board will meet with the teachers and the next regular monthly meeting is scheduled for April 5.
